to your post with renewed strength of body and mind. But remember my friend, you have entered a period of life in which you will find yourself less able than you once were to recover lost health. So you must be the more careful to keep well.

Give my love to your good wife and to aunt Charlotte if she is in Por-tore, and to each of your children.

Truly, affectionately

P.S. I have been wd a little chagrined that not the slightest notice we can depend upon in this neighborhood.

I hope it will be in your power to come to us, and help us say more explicitly and emphatically than ever, that the Fugitive Slave Law shall not be, cannot be enforced in Central New York, and ought not to be enforced any where.

Mr H. Fred Douglass is now at my house, and is to give a lecture in my Church this evening.
He says it will not be possible for him to come back from the west in time to attend our celebration.

I hope your pastication in East Hampshire may be beneficial to you, and

My dear Friend

The Committee appointed last year to make arrangements for the celebration of the Nineteenth Anniversary of the Rescue of Jerry, on the 1st of October - met last evening. - They instructed me to invite you to be with us and address the large audience that will undoubtedly be here on that occasion.

Gov. Smith renounced the Anniversary last year and he will not unite with us in the celebration of it this year.

Boniah Greene and Frederick Douglass are the only able speakers whom
